Deafness Can't Be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from Kidney and Liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best Kidney and Liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says; Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50 cents a bottle, at R. H. HOLLIDAY'S Drug-store.

Now, Give Attention !

To the purification of your blood, for at no season is the body so susceptible to the benefits to be derived from a good medicine, as in March, April and May. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the people's favorite spring medicine. It stands unequalled for purifying the blood, curing scrofula, salt rheum, etc., regulating the kidneys and liver, repairing nerve tissues, strengthening and invigorating the whole body, as well as checking the progress of acute and chronic disease, and restoring the afflicted parts to a natural, healthy condition. If you have never tried C. I. Hood&Co's Sarsaparilla for your "spring medicine," do so this season.

THE EDITOR'S CHAIR.

HOW THINGS LOOK FROM OUR STAND POINT.

The Opinion of The Caucasian and the Opinion of others which we Can Endorse on the Various Topics of the Day.

Senator, Mitchell, of Oregon, has offered a joint resolution in the Senate for an amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of United States Senators by a vote of the people.

It is true that the present personel of the Senate is to a large extent a lot of mummy money bags—a disgrace to our country and one that puts a big discount on our statesmanship, but we very much doubt whether Senator Mitchell's plan is the proper remedy. Every good Democrat will be loath to tear down (on whatever ground) any of the wise structures of the fathers of the Constitution. Remember that a Senator represents State Sovereignty. Then let us find a remedy in another direction.

In a letter, written to a gentleman in Tennessee, and published in the Congressional Record, Prof. Moses, of Raleigh, says:

"By reason of a residence of eight years in North Carolina, I know something of the bad condition of the schools here. Your school term is a little longer than ours, but we have some compensating advantages, pr minent among them, I think, better private schools, as a rule."

Our private schools and high schools and academies are good and doing a great work, but our public schools are by no means satisfactory. They not only fool the children and their parents into believing that they are being schooled, but at the same time help to brake down and demoralize the other schools, each of which some poor heroic soul is trying to run the year round. The fault is in the public school system. Let some wise-acre propose a remedy.

"J. B. H." says in the News and Observer:

"It is rule or be rained with the farmers now, as they see it, and if the protection of their interests involves politics, they must either go into politics or go to pieces. There are stirring times ahead, unless all the signs are misleading."

This is a slander on the farmers. They are not fanatics, they are not revolutionists. They have ever been the sturdiest and most conservative part of our citizenship. They are suffering great wrongs to-day and are honestly asking for simple justice, this and nothing more. If they don't receive it at first they will continue to demand and fight for it through the proper channels till it comes.

It is very apparent that the State Guard is highly important, The next Legislature should take steps to improve its efficiency and increase its members. It ought to be fully 2,000 strong exclusive of officers.—Wilmington Messenger.

Here is another little straw. Asbury Park, N. J., has gone solidly Democratic, for the first time in many years. Look up, Mr. Harrison, and you will see the handwriting on the wall. Mene, mene, tekel upharsin.—Wil. Review.

THE RESULT OF RAILROAD PROGRESS.

The editor of the Asheville Citizens says:—We have known much of the State before there was a yard of railroad on its surface; we have known it when a forest wilderness occupied the present sites of large and prosperous towns, and when waving fields spread their ample acres on ground now covered with thriving villages. This change is absolutely and entirely due to the construction of railroads. Still greater development is to follow their extension.

CO-OPERATION.

We Need Factories. We can get Them by Co-operation.

The following article from the Kinston Free Press hits Clinton to a dot:

Our townsman Mr. J.F. Taylor is interested in the welfare of the town, taking the very sensible view that what benefits the town will benefit him. He thinks, with the Free Press, that Kinston's great need is manufacturing industries, and that the only way we can get them is by co operation.

Two cotton factories were established, and are in successful operation, at Charlotte on the co-operative plan. That is, the stock was taken in small amounts by the citizens and paid for in small instalments—in one instance of 25 cents a week, in the other instance of 50 cents a week on the share. At Greensboro and other places in the State factories have been established on the same plan, and all of them are successful. In conversation with a gentleman from Greensboro a few days ago we learned that the fine cotton mill there, established on this plan, is in a highly prosperous condition. He said nearly everybody in Greensboro had stock in that mill,—even to the little children, who saved up all the money they get hold of during the week to pay their instalments on Saturday, but if they don't get enough their parents make out the amount. Now this is another splendid thing about this plan—the children can take stock, and they will learn practical lessons in economy and financiering. This gentleman also told us that the knitting mill at Greensboro was paying well; and the demand was so great for the products of this mill, it was running day and night.

There is no reason at all why Kinston can't have a factory established on the co-operative plan, therefore we must have one!

A knitting mill employs more hands than any other factory to the amount of capital invested, therefore let's start off with a knitting mill. A good idea, we think, would be to get in correspondence with some reliable man who understands the business and who is willing to invest in the enterprise and assume the management of it—not someone with a lot of old, wornout machinery to sell but someone who is willing to invest a reasonable amount of money.

To establish a knitting mill a stock company of say $10,000 might be formed with 200 shares ot $50 each, to be paid for in weekly instalments of 50 cents; and the number of shares that any one person could own limited say to 20, which would prevent one or two persons getting controol of the majority of the stock and "freezing out" the smaller stockholders. Protecting the small stockholders by limiting the amount of stock one person can own should give confidence to all, and cause the professional and business men, the machanics and other employes, and the children of the town to take one or more shares—do so as an investment to save some money as well as to help along the general interests of the town. There it hardly an employer in town that could not spare 50 cents or more every week to pay on stock in such an enterprise.

A $10,000 knitting mill would give employment to about 100 hands, mostly women and children, and would be a big thing for Kinston.

We must have factories to employ our surplus labor and the only way to secure such is by co-operation of all the townspeople. If we wait for the large money owners to establish factories they will never be established.

Mr. J. F. Taylor is much interested on this question because he recognizes the fact that it is the only way to make a thoroughly prosperous town of Kinston. Any who feel interested in what has been said can get fuller information by inquiring of Mr. Taylor; who has been in correspondence with the managers of the Charlotte cotton mills, established on the co-operrtive plan, and has copies of the charters and by-laws of both mills.

Congressman Mills expresses the opinion that in the next Congressional elections the Democrats will gain ten members from the South at least twenty-five from the North and West. All the Democrats unseated by the Republican conspirators in the House will be candidates for re-election.

A SOLAR PHENOMENON.

Charlotte, N. C., March 5.—Many people throughtout Western North Carolina, are now discussing the very mysterious phenomonon which appeared in the heavens day before yesterday, and seems to have been visible in a few sections. It was in an immense circle, with a white misty circumference drawn upon the northern heavens with the sun located upon its southern circumference. Around the sun was a smaller, but still large circle, the circumference of which had all the colors of the rainbow in it. There were other circles and parts of circles, with circumferences only partly defined, in which the rainbow colors commingled concentrical with the large, rainbow circle around the sun. At the points where these circumferences and parts of circumserences crossed the great white circle whose southern edge seemed to cover the sun, the effect in color was brilliant.

The sun was on the circumference of a large white circle, and was only the center of the smaller rainbow circle. The day was clear, not cloudy. There were slight accumulations of haze about in the heavens, but the sun shone brightly through the thickest of it, gathered together in the circumference of the circle.

The curious sight attracted much attention, and caused many an eye to water from strain, and whenever the circumference of one circle crossed the periphery of another, a bright point was accentuated, which was so glaring that it hurt the eyes to look at it, and it was evidently a picture of the sun mirrowed forth from the cloud. There were a half dozen of these solar photographs and that fact made the whole brilliant scene very difficult to observe. It was thought by some that they observed the rainbow circle surrounding the sun and cutting the great circle at two points, reproduced twice around the great circle, making three rainbow circles grouped around the circumference of the great circle. The whole picture was visible thirty minutes, gradually fading away.

Referring to the above Press Despatch, the News and Observer says:

The solar spectacle, described in a dispatch from Charlotte, and seen also in Arkansas and Georgia, was one of the of those phenomena which sometimes occur, and in the old times were regarded as foreboding disturbance and trouble. A similar occurrence was noted in England just before the beginning of the second period of hostilities in the revolution. At the time all was quiet, peace reigned and affairs were in process of settlement, but soon the King began those treacherous movements which again convulsed the country, put Cornwell and his coadjutors in peril of their lives, and, after severe and obstinate fighting resulted in bringing Charles to the block. In March, 1861, we witnessed a similar spectacle at Chief Justice Ruffin's, at Haw River, together with all of the household. It was a remarkable and wonderful sight. But natural phenomena neither can influence nor foreshadow actions of men. They arise from natural causes and are due to unusual conditions of the atmosphere.

ROSEBORO.

Mr. John M. Rose, the esteemed secretary of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, can now behold his youth revived in the lusty growth of his namesake, Roseboro, one of the most thriving and "boominy" of all the stations on the eastern extension of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, distant 34 miles from this city, with hotel in contemplation, streets laid off, houses rapidly going up, etc.

What wonderful changes have been witnessed by the old gentleman since he first took in arms and tenderly cherished this "child of his first love!" Springing from the weakness of its puny infancy, it has bounded forward in its vigorous youth, and tossed its limbs in the strength of matured life, challenging with exulting voice the echoes of the piedmont hills—its race course the territory of a great commonwealth—brushing with daring hands the clouds from the mountain's brow, while its foot spurns the crested waves of the sea.—Fayetteville Observer.

A BACKWOO'S BOY SEES THE TRAIN FOR THE FIRST TIME.

[Special to THE CAUCASIAN.]

MR. EDITOR—Dear Sir: As I have been thinking that I would write a piece for your valuable paper, and as I have taken a trip to the new railroad I will tell you what I saw.

I went to Parkersburg and was standing about when I heard something roaring. I asked what it was, they told me it was the train and it would be there o-reckly, and pretty soon it came on—something did. It hollered as if in distress, it was puffing and blowing. I was sorry for that thing, for I know it was tired, poor thing, it fetched breath so hard and fast. It was the biggest thing I ever saw. It had one big eye and it looked like fire. It had a big rack like a shovel turned bottom up in front; they said that was a cow ketcher, but I don't see how thing could ketch cows. Well it staid there a little while and left, and when it started it picked a great long iron thing and throwed it down and said "poo;" it picked up another iron thing and throwed that down and said "poo! poo!" It went away from there saying "chow, chow, chow, chow." Bless your soul that thing flew.

I asked what they fed it on. They said it would eat pine wood and lightwood nots, and that it would drink water. So I went to Autrysville to see it drink water. I thought it would drink out of the river, but they had a big tub full for it to drink out of, and it drunk and drunk and when it had drunk enough it said "toot! toot!" and picked up them iron things again and left there. I know that thing was strong for they had a rope from one end to the other so everybody could help hold it when they wanted it to stop. It had to be strong to pull them long carts fastened together, for the road I saw was so sandy, and they told me that the other end was mighty hilly and that it's bad pulling through sand and up hill. Yours, &c.,

BACKWOODS.

A BNILLIANT ADVOCATE.

The Wilson Mirror has the following deserving compliment for a rising and brainy young man.

"The able and gifted and highly talented C. B. Aycock, of Goldsboro, is the most brilliant advocate and forceful speaker that comes to our Bar, and we are glad to note that he has already made a reputation that draws around him an eager and enthusiastic crowd whenever he rises to address the jury, and they listen to him with genuine admiration and delight. And his speeches never drag with dull and leaden weight, for he never tires or wearies an audiance with stale and commonplace expressions, for all of his utterances are crisp and vigorous and pungent and fresh and original, and never fail to give instruction, edification, amusement and entertainment. And whenever it is said "Charlie Aycock is going to speak," a crowd gathers to the Court House, for they know they are going to hear something rich and rare, racy, spicy, charming and delightful. A man of fine brain power and high culture and fine literary accomplishments, his speechs therefore, not only contain the golden grains of soundest sense and wisdom, but are robed in that elegant, garniture of chaste and ornate diction which make them so fascinating and attractive; and they are delivered with that vimful vehemence and dramatic fervor which make them so effective and impressive so thrilling and so forceful. As such he is one of most brilliant and effective speakers of this Bar."

BARE-LY NOT.

A female dress reformer presents Eve as an example to her sisters. Eve, she says, wore no corsets. Neither did she wear a number two shoe on a number four foot, nor a two-story hat at the theatre, nor bangs, and didn't chew gum. There are a good many things that she didn't do that her daughters might take a hint from, but it would not do for them to imitate her too closely in matters of dress.—Wil. Star.

"May I take one kiss before I go, dearest Angelina?" "Yes, dear Edwin, you may take one, but you must return it, for ma has frequently warned me against giving kisses to any one."—Boston Courier.

WOMAN'S SPHERE.

Dress.

It is every woman's duty, first to herself, second to her family, and third to society to appear neat, attractive and to an advantage in every way possible.

Spring toilets have a decided tendency towards simplicity. With the exception of a few robes for state occasions, which by the magnificence of their material and the elegance of their embroideries suggest the exquisite toilets of the past century. Fashion chooses the soft and light materials such as cashmeres, veiling, India and China silks, crepes and grenadines, all of them well adapted for antique draperies over a straight skirt and a double breasted corsage. The plain tailor-made dress continues to be in favor. The corsage cuirass, which moulds the figure, is a real work of art, showing immediately whether the dressmaker understands her profession and is a good cutter. After all, the main thing is the cutting that correctly done the waist fits itself, and incorrectly no amount of "busheling" will remedy defects. In cloths the cut and making are of the severest style. All the other fabrics are more or less artistically handled and lace or applied silks coming from the shoulder seams are closely drawn in at the corsage: with a waistcoat of V effect the material is plaited in the side seams and gathered at the end of the front, either effect giving the figure a pretty curvature and tending to diminish the real size of the waist. It is a long time since the elaborate style now current was approached, and a novice hesitates to reproduce it. In all the imported dresses the cloths, woollens and silks are draped with the raw selvages of the goods showing.

There is nothing more elegant in millinery or costume than black Chantilly or Brussels lace, when well arranged, and perchance contrasted with a vivid color in velvet or silk. A good example of this is a low-crowned hat of red velvet, with its wide brim crumpled closely up all round with an artistic apparent carelessness, which makes the front somewhat higher than the back, and veiled both inside and out with frillings and pleatings of fine black lace, and with a small black bird, with one long, shaft-like tail feather, accentuating by its glossy plumage the cloudy darkness of the lace. A most bewitching apology for a bonnet, suggesting a Spanish mantilla, is a coronal of red satin, the open crown draped with a black lace veil, which forms the strings, the folds of the lace at the back of the head being caught together by a high jet comb.—Old Homestead.

The Table.

It has been said, "there are but a few things on which health and happiness depend more than on the manner in which food is cooked."

Hash Toast.—Chop very fine cold roast beef and boil in a little water; add a little milk and thicken with flour; season to taste, and pour over slices of toast.

Biscuists can be warmed to be as good as when just baked by placing them in the oven dry, covered with a close tin. It is a great improvement over the old way of wetting them.

If one wishes to cool a hot dish in a hurry it will be found that if the dish be placed in a vessel full of cold, salty water it will cool far more rapidly than if it stood in water free from salt.

Boiling hot liquid may be safely poured into a glass jar or tumbler by first putting a silver spoon in the dish. Be careful, however, that a draft of cold air does not strike the vessel while hot.

To serve cold roast beef, chop the beef up finely and put a layer of the beef and a layer of stewed tomatoes, then a layer of cracker dust, and put in alternate layers of each until all is in; season with salt and pepper and bits of butter and then put a layer of cracker dust over the the top; add a little water and bake a nice brown on top.

Rice Muffins.—One pint sifted flour, two heaping teaspoonfuls Horseford's baking powder, and a little salt. Thoroughly mix together; then add one cupful cold boiled rice, two eggs, one tablespoonful butter and enough sweet milk to make a thick batter. Bake immediately.

Vanilla Cream Blanc Mange.—Pour a little warm water over an ounce of gelatine and let it dissolve over the fire. Sweeten a quart of cream, flavor with vanilla, and whip it light. Strain the gelatine on the cream, wet moulds with cold water, fill them with the cream and set away to get cold.

Medicinal Properties of Vegetables.—Spinach has a direct effect upon kidneys; the common dandelion used as greens is excellent for the same trouble. Asparagus purges the blood. Celery acts admirably upon the nervous system and is a cure for rheumatism and neuralgia. Tomatoes act upon the liver. Beets and turnips are excellent appetizers. Lettuce and cucumbers are cooling in their effects upon the system. Onions, garlic, leeks, olives, and shalots, all of which are similar, possess medicinal qualities of a marked character, stimulating the circulatory system and the consequent increase of the saliva and the gastric juice, promoting digestion. Red onions are an excellent diuretic and the white ones are recommended to be eaten raw as a remedy for insomnia: They are a tonic and nutritious. A soup made from onions is regarded by the French as an excellent restorative in debility of the digestive organs. The smell of finely scraped horse-radish is said to be an effectual cure for headache, also, that the chewing of a small quantity of horse-radish, swallowing the juice, is a cure for hoarseness.

Miscellaneous.

THE GOOD WIFE: It is not to sweep the house, make the beds, darn the socks, and cook the meals chiefly that a man wants a wife. If this is all he needs a servant can do it cheaper than a wife. If this is all, when a young man calls to see a lady send him into the pantry to taste the bread and cake she has made; send him to inspect the needlework and bedmaking; or put a broom in his hand and send him to witness its use. Such things are important, and the wise young man will quickly look after them. But what the true young man wants with a wife is her companionship, sympathy and love. The way of life has many dreary places in it, and a man needs a wife to go with him.

A man is sometimes overtaken by misfortune; he meets with failures and defeat; trials and temptations beset him, and he needs one to stand by and sympathize. He has some hard battles to fight with poverty, enemies and sin, and he needs a woman that, when he puts his arm around her, he feels he has something to fight for; she will help him to fight; she will put her lips to his ear and whisper words of counsel, and her hand to his heart and impart inspiration. All through life, through storm and through sunshine, conflict and victory, through adverse and through favoring winds, man needs a woman's love.—Courier-journal.

A GOOD HUSBAND: A man's part in home-making surely consists in something besides furnishing the place for a home and supplying its material wants. He ought to contribute affection, cheerfulness, an interest in the domestic affairs that should concern him, and a little at least of that rarest form of benevolence and generosity—unselfishness of one's self. The "head of the house" who things that his duty is done when he pays the bills, criticises the meals, suppresses the children and condescends to approve his wife's management occasionally, is a shirk, if nothing worse.

SAMPSON'S BILL ARP.

[Special Correspondence to THE CAUCASIAN.]

I have on hand a fine lot of weather. If not in stock I can have it telegraphed you, three or four kinds every twenty-four hours—rain, sleet, shine or snow. Bill Smith says he has got some mighty good weather over on his place, but I have got too much for home use and it must be disposed of. If I can't sell it I am going to give it away. I think Old Probabilities has put up a job on me and changed the seasons, but I believe he has been dead two or three years and hain't had much to do with it, but I reckon he wrote his will before he died, and his mind was a little shaky, and the four seasons are now in a big law suit trying to see which part is his rights, and I think spring has been the victorious party and the jury has given him the whole platter

This weather bureau must have a heap of drawers in it or got it packed as promiscuously as a woman's trunk when she starts on a two week's trip. Every time they pull open one of them drawers out of the weather bureau at Washington something happens, nobody knows what is going to come—a negro postmaster or a discharged revenue collector, but we will get something different every thirty-two seconds. Let everybody help and get hold of the keys to that bureau and lock up every draw except the one that has got sunshine in it. If they would just mess with the political weather, and let the weather on my farm alone, I would be better satisfied. The West has got a blizzard and froze out, the South has got the negro under a cloud, Ohio has gone Democratic and got left, New England manufacturers are preaching religion and free-law of the ballot-box and grinding the poor working classes to death. Mr. Ingalls has got the key to the draw that has got an earthquake in it, preaching conspiracy and the torch to the negroes. Zeb Vance is after the key. Go it Zeb, for God's sake don't let him unlock the draw with the earthquake in it. I tried one and I dont like it. Well these days have got so a man can't count on nothing for certain. We have weather to plant garden peas, with weather to make them come up and grow and bloom, and then we feel proud and tell our neighbors what a fine prospect we have, how much we are going to ship and then discuss the market price and what we are going to do with the money.

Hepsie shall have a new dress and a spring bonnet; and I am going to buy me a new spring wagon, and pay Noah for ironing that new blackgum ox yoke I made the other day while it was raining. But, gewhillekins! they telegraphed me one more kind of weather and killed all my peas. My hopes are all gone, and I feel like little Billy said when he got caught in the goose hole. I had a yearling in the lot and the hogs had messed with him so much by rolling their fists in his forehead he got so he would butt you. Billy wern't as big as the other hogs but he thought he would try it too. The geese had worked a hole under the fence out at the lot well, where they would go in and out, to pick up the corn that was dropped at the barn door.

Billy had just put on pants, and his mamma was mighty proud of him. Every time she would look at him I could see a smile come over her face, and her heart swell up as big as the whole of creation. I was selfish enough to steal some of Billy's mamma's love to him because he favored his dad; but I saw she had enough for us both and I was satisfied. Well, Billy went in the lot, stepped up to that yearling and he bowed up and made for Billy and he made for the fence, he could not get over it so he dived under the fence through the goose hole, I saw the situation and ran to beat off the yearling, Billy had got half way through, and the yearling butted where his pants hung loose and sent the other half through. It did not hurt him, he landed on the other side kerwhim. Billy got up and looked through the, crack stuck his hands in his pockets and said "durn that yearling." I feel rather the same way about the weather.

Every body must help me and lets see if we cant change things for good in this country, every time I look around here everything looks so gloomy, I have been thinking about going away to Georgia. I got a nice piece of mud land, I think if I had a nice "Drane" on it so I wouldn't have to ditch, I could turn a barren waste inth a paradice. Spring will surely come. The seasons regular and I am,

Is it Right?

[FOR THE CAUCASIAN.

MR MARION BUTLER,
Editor CAUCASIAN:

Dear Sir—I have never written an article for your paper, or any other paper, but there is a matter about which somebody should write and something be done.

Our people have made sorry crops for several years owing to the seasons, but that is providential and there is no murmuring. They are preparing and doing all they can to make another crop, but under very unfavorable circumstances, owing to labor. The turpentine farmers of the South came out here in January and sent their agents all through the country exciting and demoralizing labor with fine promises and fabulous prices, and carried off hundreds of laborers from our township, which was discouraging for the future outlook, but not all hopes of making at other crop was lost, they went to work with the few hands left, after the excitement was over, hired some and rented to others, as best they could, and seemed to be getting along very well under the circumstances, owing to the favorable winter; all was quiet until a few days ago, when lo and behold, our quiet community was disturbed and excitement ran to fever heat by another of Georgia's great turpentine farmers prowling all through the country exciting and abducting those that were hired for wages, breaking up contracts between landlord and tenant by misrepresentations and fabulous prices offered to decoy them off.

And now, Mr. Editor, in conclusion, you know that the people of Sampson county are patient and forbearing in not resisting the outrages and wrongs that are heaped upon them by these emmissaries that come among us. Our people are moral, and the records of last term of court will prove that no county in the State can show a better record. Last but not least, the Sampsonians are an industrious and brave people, and every township in the county, and in fact, in North Carolina, should speak in language not to be misunderstood, that they will not longer bear these wrongs. No State South has been imposed upon as North Carolina in that particular. If people want to emmigrate let them go on their own account, and not be decoyed off by agents and emmissaries after crops have been pitched. More anon,

WAY CROSS.

March 6th, 1890.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found hers if benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at DR. R. H. HOLLIDAY'S Drugstore; large bottles 50 cents and one dollar.

Alliance Department.

BLUFF ALLIANCE.
Hobton, N. C.

While many members of Bluff are so careless and indifferent that they do not attend the meetings regularly, there are a score who are as true, as the needle to the pole, to Alliance work. I have by dint of perseverance secured and forwarded $85,75; have recently collected $8,75, and $3 in notes yet to collect, making a total in cash contributed to the State Business agency fund $91,50. Several of the members have dimits, some suspended and two expelled, and in the face of many misfortunes and disadvantages the true members are still at work hoping and anticipating a better time coming. May it speedily come. Brethern rally around the Alliance banner; be true to its leaders; vote for none but honest hightoned gentlemen, put your trust in God, and let the demands to Congress be made in a bold, determined and fearless manner, and the bright day-star of hope will once more illumine our pathway. Never abandon the principles of the Alliance but ever remain true to it. One more word. If the Alliance ceases to exist then the farmer is financially dead forever and without the shadow of a hope of resurrection.

C.

There are to-day 2,063 sub-Alliances in North Carolina, and ninety five counties have county Alliances besides. That is all the counties save one, and that one is New Hanover. There are some sub-Alliances in that county, but as yet the county Alliance has not been formed. The State Alliance office here has enlarged its offices, and now occupies the entire building, which it has occupied jointly with the Call.—Raleigh cor. Wil. Messenger.

A Washington correspondent of the News and Observer says.—Vance will be re-elected if the Alliance does not prevent it. The indicaptions are that he will get that support. He has always been the choice of the farmers of North Carolina, and he has been given to understand that they still appreciate his great worth and devotion to principle. Of all the farmers in the Senate, he was selected to introduce the agricultural depository bill, which is the offspring of the National Alliance, and which is regarded by that organization as test legislation. It begins the fight against the National Bank and Railroad monopolies. The House and Senate will both have an opportunity to make a record on it. The Alliance has determined to push the measure to a vote. The first hearing will be had about April, when President Polk will address the Senate committee on agriculture.

EUREKA ALLIANCE NO. 328,

Eureka Alliance has made an order for sugar, soda, etc., and has saved money by the operation.

LAURINBURG, N. C., Sept. 17th, 1889.

Messrs. J. C. Stevenson & Taylor, Wilmington, N. C.:

DEAR SIRS:—After using the half barrel "Champion Food" purchased of you we can readily say that it has fulfilled every representation made for it so far as we have tried it. In no instance has it failed to benefit stock fed on it. We can particularly recommend it for milch cows, calves and colts. We regard it as the best stock food on the market. Send us another half barrel.

Yours Truly,
ALEX. MCKINNON & CO.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Oct. 10th, 1889.

Messrs. J. C. Stevenson & Taylor:

GENTLEMEN:—The "Champion Food" you sold us has been given a fair trial, it is a success, and we are glad to add testimony to its worth. When fed to our horses we find it aids digestion, creates an appetite and the animal improves at once; it is a great conditioner, and a trial will prove its value. We have fed it to our cows and with them also it has proved a great digestive, both the flow and the quality of the milk has improved, the per centage of increase we cannot yet positively state. The food does all you claim in the line of tests we have made; we shall continue its use and advise all the owners of stock to give it a trial.

—The Kinston Free Press says: Mr. T. B. Ashford has invented an ink-bottle stopper that automatically opens when the pen is inserted and closes when it is withdrawn.

—The Daily State Chronicle is a newsy, readable, excellent paper. Already we are beginning to pick it first among our daily exchanges. Success to you, Bro. Daniels; you richly merit it.

—The Messenger says: Wide-awake Durham thus far has raised $108,172.00 for Trinity College if it goes there. Surely there can be no doubt or hesitancy as to what is best to be done.

—The American Pine Fibre Company formally opened its factory for the manufacture of bagging for cotton from the straw of long-leaf, at Cronly on Monday. The mills are now turning out 3,000 yards per day.

—The third page of the Fayetteville Observer of last week was literally studded with local gems. By the way we wish to congratulate the editors on the excellent paper they are now publishing.

—Thanks to Mr. V. S. Bryant for an invitation to attend the first Public Debate between the Dialectic and Philanthropic Literary Societies at the University on the evening of March the 29th. Mr. Bryant is one of the debators.

—Read the article by Way Cross on the decoying off of labor after farms are pitched. The Legislature should make it an inditable offense for these agents to come into the State for such purposes between the 1st of January and 1st of November of each year.

—Mr. W. G. Hubbard's residence is being improved by a new coat of paint. What a pity others will not do likewise. It not only helps to beautify the home, but also give the town a fresh and vigorous air of thrift. New fences and fresh paint make a fine impression on strangers.

—The Semi-Centennial Commencement Exercises of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery takes place to-night at Ford's Opera House, Baltimore. We are indebted to our friend, Dr. J. H. Benton, the popular physician of Newton Grove, who is taking a course in Dental Surgery there, for an invitation to attend.

—A Washington correspondent of the News and Observer says that Senator Vance will be re-elected if the Alliance does not prevent it. On behalf of the order we will say that the Alliance will never prevent Vance's election. While he is not elegible for membership, yet there is not a better Alliance man in the United States to day.

—Dr. B. F. Marable, writing under of March 17th requests us to say that he expects to occupy his pulpit at the Presbyterian church in Clinton next Sabbath, the 23d. The Doctors many friends and admirers who on account of his illness have been deprived of his able, instructive sermons for sometime will be delighted to know that he is improving and will probably be present next Sabbath.

—Mr. Thos. K. Bryan, a prominent citizen of Faison, a former citizen of Sampson, who has been afflicted for several years with paralysis, died at his home on last week, the 12th instant, aged about sixty years. His remains were interred at the old Faison burying grounds, at Elliot. He leaves a wife and two daughters. His wife was the widow of Dr. E. F. Shaw and the mother of Mr. M. F. Shaw, the present sheriff of Pima county, Arizona.

—The New Berne Journal says: On yesterday we visited Mr. Rhem's place and the adjacent farms. Mr. Rhem's cabbage are the best we have seen. He has already shipped 2,000 boxes for which he obtained from $3.50 to $4.23 a box. He is of the opinion that there will be a third of a crop of peas, and that it will be worth to the farmer as much as a full crop would have been. There is no better authority than Mr. Rhem, and we know the community will be gratified at his statement, —Our wide awake townsman, M. Hanstein, the King Hatter and Clother, left this morning for the northern markets where he will lay in a large stock of spring and summer clothing. The people of this and adjoining counties have already learned that for excellent of quality, elegance of fit and reasonables of prices that Clinton is hard to beat, and our clothing dealers say that they are determined to even improve their already enviable record this season.

—The Y. M. C. A. Convention that was in session in Goldsboro last week was a large and enthusiastic meeting, with 275 delegates present. We understand that one of the objects of the Association is to try to effect a harmony and union of all the protestant churches. Messrs. Duncan Partrick and George Matthis represented the Association of this place. They report that the membership of the Association doubled within the last year. The next annual meeting will be held in Durham. Mr. Southgate, of that place was elected president for the ensuing year.

—Never was a young editor more happily honored, though completely taken unawares, than were we on last Tuesday afternoon, when several young ladies gave us a surprise pop call. But we fear that our matrimonial prospects are ruined, for not till then had we noticed that our office was so glaringly untidy and our table and book cases in such dreadful derangement. Nevertheless it seemed good to see a woman here, and may we again have the happy privilege to welcome the gladsome sight.

—Maj. W. N. Peden has just had made at the shops of W. T. Williamson a buggy that would do credit to any shops, and that could not fail to please the most fastideous purchaser. The Major is also greatly pleased with a new and handsome set of harness just finished for him by Mr. W. H. Stetson, whose harness is, everywhere it is known, noted for its durability. The Major says that in point of price, durability and neatness, he could not have done better in the city of New York. We make the above note to call the attention of our people to the fact that not only do our home industries deserve support, but also that it is to the advantage of the buyer to patronize them.

Shakespearian Club.

At the last meeting of the club several of the members on duty were not prepared, but those who were did well. The club voted Mayor W. S. Thomson's article on the origin and sources of the play the best, one of the duties assigned to some member at each meeting is to select and read a dozen or more of the finest passages from the play under discussion. The following are some of the quotations from the merchant of Venice read at last meetins:—

They are as sick that surfeit with too much, as they that starve with nothing.

If to do were as easy as to know what were good to do, chapels had been churches, and poor men's cottages princes' palaces. It is a good divine that follows his own instructions: I can easier teach twenty what were good to be done, than be one of the twenty to follow mine own teaching.

The Devil can cite Scripture for his purpose.
An evil soul, producing holy witness,
Is like a villain with a smiling cheek,
A goodly apple rotten at the heart:
O, what a godly outside falsehood hath!

For who shall go about
To cozen fortune, and be honourable
Without the stamp of merit? Let none presume
To wear an undeserved dignity.
O, that estates, degrees, and offices,
Were not derived corruptly! and that clear honour
Were purchased by the merit of the wearer!
How many then should cover that stand bare!.

There is no vice so simple, but assumes
Some mark of virtue on his outward parts:

I never did repent for doing good,
Nor shall not now; for in companions
That do converse and waste the time together,
Whose souls do bear an equal yoke of love,
There must be needs a like proportion
Of lineaments, of manners, and of spirit;
which makes me think that this Antonio,
Being the bosom lover of my lord,
Must needs be like my lord.

He is well paid that is well satisfied;

How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank!
Here will we sit, and let the sounds of music,
Creep in our ears; soft stillness and the night
Become the touches of sweet harmony.
Sit, Jessica. Look, how the floor of Heaven
Is thick inlaid with patines of bright gold:
There's not the smallest orb which thou behold'st
But in his motion like an angel sings,
Still quiring to the young-eyed cherubins:
Such harmony is in immortal souls;
But, whilst this muddy vesture of decay
Doth grossly close it in, we cannot hear it.

I'm never merry when I hear sweet music.

How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world.

The quality of mercy is not strain'd;
It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven.
Upon the place beneath; it is twice bless'd;
It blesseth him that gives, and him that takes:
'Tis mightiest in the mightiest; it becomes
The throned monarch better than his crown;
His sceptre shows the force of temporal power,
The attribute to awe and majesty,
wherein doth sit the dread and fear of kings;
But mercy is above the sceptred sway;
It is enthroned in the hearts of kings,
It is an attribute to God himself;
And earthly power doth then show likest God's when mercy seasons justice.

Why should a man, whose blood is warm within,
Sit like his grandsire cut in alabaster?
Sleep when he wakes? and creep into the jaundice
By being peevish? I tell thee what, Antonio,
I love thee, and it is my love that speaks,
There are a sort of men whose visages
Do cream and mantle like a standing pond;
And do a wilful stillness entertain,
with purpose to be dress'd in an opinion
Of wisdom, gravity, profound conceit;
As who should say, "I am Sir Oracle,
And when I ope my lips, let no dog bark!"

And she is fair, and, fairer than that word,
Of wondrous virtues: sometimes from her eyes
I did receive fair speechless messages.

The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mrs. Brown. Play Othello The programme will be as follows:—

Mr. E. L. Faison, Review of play; Mr. Butler, History and Sources; Miss Sudie Faison, Othello and Iago; Mr. J. C. Slocumb, Desdemona; Miss Lee, Rosalind; Portia and Desdemona, Miss Mittie Beaman, Ethical Side; Miss Nela Fowle, Quotations.

Mayor's Court.

The following cases have been disposed of before His Honor, the Mayor:

State vs Peter Bunting, disorderly conduct, defendant discharged.

State vs W. T. weston, drunkenness, deft. fined one dollar and cost. State vs John Bowden, Assault and Battery, deft. guilty, discharged upon payment of cost. State vs Calvin wilson, disorderly, judgement suspended upon payment of cost. State vs Henry McLamb and Allen Hare, A. & B. deft. guilty and fined five dollars each and cost. State vs John E. Lewis, disorderly, judgement suspended upon payment of cost. State vs Henry McLamb and Allen Hare, A. & B. deft. discharged without fine. State vs Dick Eason, disorderly, judgement suspended. State vs Thos. Gautier, Assault with a deadly weapon, deft. found guilty of a simple assault and fined five dollars and cost. State vs John R. Register and W. H. Duncan, A. & B. Judgement suspended.

THAT HACKING COUGH can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure, we guarantee it. For sale by R. H. HOLLIDAY, Druggist, Clinton, and W. P. KENNEDY & Co., Warsaw, N. C.

MCDANIELS.

Mr. Thomas Smith died at home on the 14th instant.

Miss Fannie J. Watson is visiting her sister, Mrs Eliza Strickland, of Cumberland county.

Died, on the 19th of February, Mrs. Mary Lou Carter, wife of R. A. Carter. The deceased was a most estimable woman and a consistent member of the Missionary Baptist Church. RED BIRD.

Editor CAUCASIAN: The farmers in this section are preparing for an early crop.

Mr. Nealy Watson has about finished planting corn and others will plant this week.

It is to be hoped that we will have no more snow or frost. The huckleberries are nearly all killed.

Everything seems to be dull for the want of a freshet. Lots of timber and tar waiting the fall of sufficient rain.

We are glad to see improvements going on in the townships and the town of Clinton. LITTLE IKE.

TAYLOR'S BRIDGE,

Miss Bettie Murphy is visiting relatives and friends in this, the township of her nativity.

Miss Lula Merritt went yesterday to Goldsboro, where she will spend several weeks with a sister.

There is a girl in this township bearing the name that follows: Sampson County Beauty Spot Nicholas Parker Forget Me Not Cilistia Johnson.

Last week one of our citizens returned home from stay of thirteen years and found that neither one of the three husbands his wife had married and buried had fixed up the side gate. J. M.

LITTLE COHARIE.

Mr. M. Butler—Dear Sir: I told you last week that a negro was killed near the Big Swamp by train, but it was a mistake. The engineer told the section hands that they run over something but did not know what. It was not a negro.

Virgin turpentine has opened today at Autryville at $2.80 per barrel.

Capt. Autry is now moving his store from the old stand to the depot. They keep up their business as it moves.

Miss Lonie Bristowe, who has been visiting friends and relatives in Enfield, Halifax county, is again at home.

There was a very enjoyable party at Mr. J. R. Fisher's on Saturday night last, given in honor of oue of Cumberland's most charming young ladies, Miss Cora Thaggard, who is visiting friends and relatives in this section.

We have seen in THE CAUCASIAN the account of several big hogs being killed from different townships; but have not seen any from our section, so I will give you a pretty fair average, as we think. Mr. J. R. Fisher killed four this fall that net him 1,304 pounds, and that he was so fortunate as not to lose any of it, while another man killed at the same time hogs that made an average of seventy-five pounds each and lost all of it. PLUG.

FRANKLIN.

A certain innocent porker began to show signs of cholera on a beautiful Sabbath morning. Its owner thinking a preventive better than a cure, proceeded to break two of the ten commandments by turning the animal into pork the self-same day.

HONEYCUTTS.

La Grippe is raging in this community.

We thought that the Gulf stream had changed and we were to have no more winter, and we were thinking of planting an orange grove; but alas! the winter came, huckleberries and peaches are killed, and while this is to be regretted the freezes have done an untold good in killing insects and freezing the land that has been ploughed. No. TEN.

There should be a law forbidding the running at large of stock hogs and stock cows. Until something is done in this direction our stock can never be much improved.

Mr. Henry Turlington has moved his saw-mill nearer, and several new buildings are being put up.

Mrs. J. A. Beaman, of Clinton, paid her sister, Mrs. W. J. Butler, a flying visit last week.

The mail route from Huntley to Owenville has been discontinued.

Mrs. T. S. and J. A. Underwood, are suffering very much from the "la grippe".

Owing to the inclemency of the weather Rev. J. L. Stewart failed to fill his appointment at Salem Sunday last. COUSIN SALLIE.

Mr. George Cooper brought his bride home last Thursday, and like a sensible man settled down to housekeeping as if it were no new thing with him.

HALLS.

THE CAUCASIAN is in the majority at Hobton. The subscribers are always anxious to get it; it is a most excellent local paper and deserves the support of all Sampsonians, and they should heed the editor's call and settle arrears. C.

The people in this section are preparing to plant cotton, as usual, can't do without it, they have to have some money in the fall; nothing else will bring it, and cotton will not bring much, because we can't make much cotton. Our land is too poor to make it and we are too lazy in winter to make our land rich enough to make cotton, so we, buy guano, remain poor. We must do something. Well, what shall it be? They say a rolling stone gathers no moss, neither does a setting goose gather many feathers. Perhaps Messrs. J. C. Hobbs and T. A. Hobbs will hit it right. Mr. J. C. Hobbs put out last winter about fifteen hundred fruit trees, and Mr. T. A. Hobbs put out this winter about two thousand fruit trees and vines; and christened his farm "Fruitland." There was already about one thousand or fifteen hundred bearing trees and vines on their farms, making in all about five thousand. You must come over some day in the summer when you stop to feed and get an apple and some of the fermented juice. [We will be sure to do so.—ED.]

Mrs. Jane Kerr, who has been on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Washington Bannerman, of Pamonia, Fla., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Hobbs.

Misses Mamie Kerr and Lula Bannerman, the charming young daughters of Dr. Charles Kerr, of Delta, this county, and Mr. Washington Bannerman, of Pamonia, Fla., are visiting their aunt, Mrs. J. C. Hobbs.

Mr. A. H. King was unfortunate enough to have his dwelling and kitchen destroyed by fire on the 14th.

Miss Sudie Darden, who has been teaching at Lizzard Hill, closed her school on last Friday.

YAMYUMMIM.

NEWTON GROVE.

The recent rain and snow stopped the farmers to some extent.

Who will be our next county officers? Think and talk about it, ye who might be interested.

Farmers, as soon as you get what home-made manure you have out of your way, get to making more for another year. Don't be afraid you will make too much. Make plenty of it so that you will not have to buy so much adulterated guano. Pay the same amount of money you have been paying for adulterated fertilizers to some one to rake and haul in your lots and stables. 'Tis then your land will improve rapidly instead of getting worse every year. Try it and you will be convinced that what I have said is true. US.

[Also be sure that your manure is sheltered —EE.]

LISBON.

The farmers of this section are getting ready to farm.

Mrs. James Gillis, who has been quite sick for some time, is now convalescent. We hope she will soon be entirely recovered.

Miss Mollie Herring is visiting friends and relatives in Thomasville, Ga.

There has been found in this neighborhood a current bush in full bloom with ripe currents. They were found in February. AUGUSTA.

Baltimore College of Dental Surgery.

The Semi-Centennial Commencement Exercises of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery (the oldest Dental College in the World) will be held to-day, the 20th, at 2 P. M., in Ford's Opera House. Hon. Z. B. Vance, of North Carolina, has been invited to deliver the annual address. Those from North Carolina who will receive the degree Doctor of Dental Surgery are: R. W. Reese, of Yadkin county; W. H. Hargrave,, of Mecklenburg county; M. H. Hunter, of Yadkin county; J. H. Landon, of Chatham county; J. E. Dugger, of Warren county; D. T. Smithwick, Vance county; J. H. Benton, M. D., Sampson county; J. E. Freeland, Mecklenburg county.

The annual commencement of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Baltimore took place on Tuesday, the 17th inst, at 12 M., at the Academy of Music. Bishop John J. Keane, rector of the Catholic University at Washington City, delivered the address to the graduating class. Messrs. N. M. Blalock, J. B. Watts, Wm. McAllister and J. F. Sanderford, of N. C., had the degree of Doctor of Medicine conferred upon them.

Warsaw Items.

[Reg. Cor. CAUCASIAN.]

Our truckers have taken advantage of the rainy days by fertilizing their strawberry vines. They sow the guano on top of the plants, and those who have tried it before say it is the best plan yet found.

The great Jay Gould was working in the rain and taking an interest in the work equal to that taken by the original Jay in railroads.

From the number and size of the compost heaps in some of our fields near town the next year promises to be one of peace and plenty with these stirring men who know the true principle upon successful farming is based.

The new Methodist church adds greatly to the looks of Bay street and vicinity and when completed will no doubt be the finest church in the county.

The Warsaw Dramatic Club will give one of their highly enjoyable entertainments in the near future and we predict for them, as has always been the case, a good audience who will never regret attending one of these entertainments.

The warm weather of the past few days has brightened the hopes of our truckers, and all are wearing the same broad smile that was to be seen on our streets before the cold snap.

Our popular young doctor has moved into his spacious dwelling on the corner of Hill and Gum streets. Only one more move in the right direction will make him a happy and well contented man. "More" later?

The "weels" and "drys" have counted noses in town and both claim the majority.

Some shrewd plans have been laid and will be carried out by both sides. The fight promises to a hot one and feeling will run very high.

Messrs. Hines and Hussey's new still is nearing completion and promises to be a paying enterprise.

The lot next to the Baptist church owned by D. G. Morisey has been improved by the addition of a new plank fence, and is being brought to a high state of cultivation under the efficient management of Mr. Lambeth. It is considered one of the best lots in town.

When will the exodus stop? Some say that it will benefit the state; possibly it might if none but negroes would leave. It does not stop with them. Besides many of our workmen, laborers & etc, many of our young men have caught the fever and have departed for different points in the south. Instead of leaving Norte Caiolina they should stay and develop the natural resources which God has so bountifully bestowed upon the Old North State. We acknowledge that short crops and other things taken together have made money scarce in the eastern part of the state, these things will happen everywhere, but in natural advantages our section offers as great advantages to the industrious man as any portion of the south. SPRITZ.

Personals.

Mr. Lentz, of Concord, is visiting at Dr. McKinnon's.

Mrs. Dr. T. J. Boykin, of Baltimore, Md., is visiting relatives in Clinton.

Miss Rena Mieks, who has been visiting in Goldsboro, returned Saturday night.

Miss Madge Faison is visiting her sister, Miss Mamie Faison, of the Faculty of Peace Institute, Raleigh, N. C.

Mr. "Nick" Holliday returned Tuesday. He has just completed the Junior Course at the Baltimore College of Pharmacy. He will probably stand the State Examination before returning to finish his senior course.

Mrs. M. E. Peterson, of the firm of M. E. Peterson & Co., has just returned from New York, where she bought a large new stock of goods. She says that the Racket Store will now surprise our people with cheap prices more than ever.

Dr. J. A. Stevens, N. G. of Clinton Lodge I. O. O. F., went to Raleigh last week to attend the reception given Grand Sire John C. Underwood. He was much pleased with his visit and says that Underwood is the Zeb Vance of Kentucky.

Accidental Shooting.

A negro girl, aged 11 years daughter of Virgil Best, living in the surburbs of the town, was accidently shot on Monday evening. The child, its mother having started to whip it, ran to the corner of the room, where a rifle and shot gun were standing, to evade the blows. The shot gun being knocked down was discharged, the entire load of bird shot entering the extreme lower part of the back and passing out through the abdomen. Its condition is critical.

Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy

Mrs. Person's Remedy will Cure Rheumatism.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 10, '84.

I have used Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and it is the finest medicine I ever used for rheumatism. For more than 20 years I have been afflicted with muscular rheumatism, and had tried every known remedy, but without avail. I was often so bad off and suffered so much that I could not lie down, but had to be propped up in bed. I had been subject to these severe attacks for 20 years. I tried Mrs. Person's Remedy last spring, and am perfectly cured. It is the best medicine in the world, I think. No words of mine can express the benefit I have derived from its use. I suffered from palpitation of the heart upon the least exertion. Of that I am perfectly relieved. My health is now perfect, and it is all owing to Mrs. Joe Person's remedy. I am strong and well, and can take extended exercise without fatigue. I advise all who need a tonic, or are suffering with rheumatism or Eczema, to take it. I was induced to try it by its having cured my little grandson of eczema. MRS. S. M. HOWELL.

Mr. J. C. HOBBS, Hobton, N. C.

Dear Sir:—I notice that my father, James Britt, Sr., is using your non-friction Ring for plow lines. His lines are good not fretted at all, while mine are frazzeled nearly in two. You will please send me two pair of your patent Rein Rings.

Very truly,
JAMES BRITT, JR.,
Business Agent, of Bluff Alliance.

CLINTON, N. C., May 21st, '88.

J. C. HOBBS, Hobton, N. C.

Dear Sir—I have thoroughly tested your patented attachment for holding Plow lines. I am well pleased with it. It adds ease to man and horse, and to last of lines. It affords me pleasure to recommend them favorably Yours respectfully, DRUNKENNESS—LIQUOR HABIT—In all the World there is but one cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and today believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O.

Every one is complimenting the improvement of THE CAUCASIAN, but we are not yet satisfied. We wish to make it better still.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WHAT IS SCROFULA
It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED
By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLILE, Nauright, N. J.

TRUE TO THE END.

BY CARINE.

When fortune frowns and friends desert,
And all thy hopes decay,
There is a heart still true—a face
That will not turn away.
The mother's fond and trusting love
Will live through cold neglect;
And ne'er a thought of a return
Its constance doth direct.

She never asks, "is it a waste
To give so much, and get
So small a portion back"; nor feels
One shadow of regret,
For years of long devotion given
To an unworthy child;
But deems it still a joy to love
Her own, e'en though defiled.

O, who would wound a heart so true,
And send a throb of pain
To one who'd sooner die than give
One sorrow back again?
The pure unsullied love that lasts
As long as one heart-beat
Lives in the breast, that aye would shield
From ills that we must meet.

So ready e'er to hide the faults
Which vex our other friends:
So quick to see and prize the good
That in our nature blends.
A love unselfish, pure and sweet,
As holy angels feel
For erring mortals here below—
For aye, through woe or weal

ATTAR OF ROSES.

How It Is Prepared and How American Roses Waste Their Sweetness.

"Here y'are, gents! Here y'are!" yelled the street fakir. "Here y'are, gents! The real, genuine otter of roses, right fresh from the otter, the only living animal besides the musk ox that gives up perfumes for the hankychif! Here y'are! Otter of roses, fresh from the otter! Five cents a bottle!"

A young man in the crowd became seized of an idea. He went to the nearest drug store.

"How much is attar of roses a bottle?" he asked of the druggist.

"It'll cost you $100 an ounce," said the drug man. "The genuine India attar of roses is worth $100 an ounce."

"Got any?" asked his visitor.

"Not today," said the druggist. "We're just out."

"What makes it cost so much?"

"Well, one reason is," replied the druggist, "it takes 50,000 roses to make a single ounce of attar. If you can buy 50,000 roses for less than $100 then maybe you can knock the price of attar down. Attar of roses, young man, ain't milked out of cows. It is made in India, although if they only knew it, they could make it just as well in California. The same rose grows there from which the attar is distilled in India. I have seen huge hedge rows near Samona, in California, so dense with these roses that the odor from them, on a warm, sultry day, caused a feeling of peculiar faintness and oppression to the passer by. This is the effect of the attar, which is distilled by the heat and moist air, and is held suspended, as it were, in the atmosphere.

"There is money in that cause of faintness and indolence; but in this country not only the sweetness, but the great value of the flower, is wasted on the desert air. In northern India the roses are regularly cultivated. They are planted in rows in fields, and require no particular care. When they begin to bloom they are plucked from the bushes before midday. The work is done by women and children, who seem to regard it more as a pleasure than a pursuit of labor. The rose leaves are distilled in twice their weight of water, which is then drawn off into open vessels. These are allowed to stand over night, being covered up with cloths to protect their contents from dirt and insects. In the morning the surface of the water will be covered with a thin oily film. This is the rare attar of roses. It is skimmed off with a fine feather and dropped into vials. This process continues daily until the roses cease to bloom. I don't see why any essence or oil that requires the distilling of 50,000 roses to fill an ounce bottle hasn't a right to have a good price set upon it. Don't you think so?"—New York Sun.

He Hired Him.

Not many weeks ago a popular young Chicagoan was wedded to the girl of his choice, and the happy pair started off after the ceremony on their wedding tour. Neither of them had ever been to the capital of the nation, and Washington was their objective point. The happy young groom had put aside a comfortable looking roll for the honeymoon trip, and he was fully resolved to do things up in style. He wanted to thoroughly impress his bride with his own importance. When they alighted from the train at the depot in Washington he saw a number of indifferent looking cabs backed up to the curb, but he wanted something swell. Telling his pretty bride to take a seat in the waiting room, he went around to the other side of the depot. There he saw a fine carriage. Whistling to the driver and signaling him to come over, he went back and got his bride. He was about to help her into the carriage when the big black coachman objected. "I hired you," said the young man, loftily, "and I want you to drive us to the Arlington." But the dusky driver shook his head. "Yo' cant hire me," he said, "'cause the president hires me, an' I'm waitin' here for him now." It was President Harrison's carriage. The young man hustled his bride into a gurney and made the best of it. The next morning he read of the president's return from his hunting trip.—Chicago Herald.

Destruction of Dies in a Mint.

Ever since the establishment of the United States mint at Philadelphia the law has required the government officials in charge of that institution to render a strict account of all dies engraved, used, broken or damaged, and a complete detailed list of every die in their possession at the end of every year. These dies are taken in boxes to the forges below the mint, and there every one of them, from that which has coined the humble "copper" to that which has created the aristocratic golden "eagle," must, according to instructions from the treasury department at Washington, "be utterly destroyed by forge and sledge."

This process, which involves considerable time, as all the dies used, either at the mint in San Francisco or Philadelphia, must be handled separately and all destroyed here, is watched closely by designated officials, the superintendent, chief coiner, assayer and chief engraver.

The dies are of steel, circular in form and about four or five inches in length. These are placed in the fire at the forges, and when at a white heat are taken out, placed upon the anvil, and then the beautifully engraved faces smashed into a dull, battered mass by the sledge hammer.—Troy Budget.

CARRIED OFF BY A GORILLA.

The Startling Adventure Which Befell an African Woman.

"The natives of Africa are cowards in war," said Carl Steckleman, the explorer, to a reporter. "They prefer to take prisoners, and comparatively few of their enemies are killed outright. They are afraid to strike for fear they will receive a more damaging blow in return. They make slaves of their prisoners, and the captives have a sorry time. Of all enemies they dread the gorilla most; and he is a foe that no man dare despise. He will fight at sight. Numbers do not deter him. He is so human and desperate in his defense and attack that the Africans have long learned that to fight with a gorilla is to fight to the death.

"This dreadful animal keeps to the woods, as it is necessary for him to grasp hold of the boughs as he walks on his hind legs. A man is, therefore, comparatively safe if he is on the prairie. There are some extraordinary things told of the gorilla. I will relate one of them. I had always heard it said that the male gorilla would not harm a woman. This is the common belief in some tribes.

"One day we came to a village in which one hut had been built apart from the rest. We inquired for the reason of this, and found that it had been dedicated to a witch. This witch was greatly revered. She had been the wife of a gorilla. The woman had lived in a village in a house which stood on the edge of the forest. A great tree overhung her shanty. In the village all trees had been cut down as a precaution against the gorillas. One night one of these animals came out of the forest, got up into the big tree which overhung the woman's house, climbed down on the roof, threw the roof off, swung down into hut, seized the woman, climbed up through the hole in the roof, up into the tree, and went away into the woods, carrying the woman with him.

"The gorilla's great strength made this an easy thing to do. He could hold her in one arm, and with his two hind legs and his one free fore arm make his way up and down trees or through the woods. The woman was gone for many days. The people saw that her house roof had been torn off. They looked carefully around the house and saw that there were no tracks whatever. They then knew that the dread enemy had carried her off.

"One day she came back. She told a wonderful story. The gorilla had carried her for miles into the woods, and finally had climbed a great tree and doposited her in his home. There he treated her very kindly, brought her food and drink, but would not permit her to leave. After watching her carefully for many days he finally left her, probably intending to return in a short time, convinced that she would remain. The woman came down to the ground, and, after wandering in the forest for several days, made her way back to the village. The people at first were about to kill her, but they finally concluded that she was possessed of extraordinary powers. They therefore built her a house for herself, supplied her with every comfort, and looked up to her as a sacred person."—Auckland (New Zealand) News.

Let It Pour.

The other day, while the rain was pouring down, a citizen left the postoffice to encounter an acquaintance who was also sheltered by an umbrella.

"Raining, isn't it?" queried the first.

"Hey?"

"Raining, isn't it?"

"I'd like to see you a moment," was the reply. "Come upstairs."

The two passed up, traversed the dark hall to the darkest corner, and then No. 2 turned to No. 1 with:

"Do you take me for an infernal idiot?"

"Why, no, of course not."

Do you suppose I carry an umbrella around to keep the sun off, this time of year?"

"No."

"I'm carrying it to keep the rain off, am I not?"

"Of course."

"Well, then, it rains. You know it rains. Everybody in town knows it rains. Now you go on and let people alone."

"But—but"——

"That's all. You let it rain. She knows her business. You just attend to your own affairs and let the weather alone. Good day, sir."

And he went clumping downstairs and left the other to fellow at his leisure.—San Francisco Wasp.

Treatment of Cancer.

A new treatment of cancer advocated by Dr. J. Mortimer Granville consists in very frequent administrations of papain and thallin and their combination in the form of pills. The aim is to get absorption of the drug, not local action on the stomach. In cancer of that organ Dr. Mortimer Granville gives, besides the pills, papain suspended in water with thallin and an alkali. The patient must be fed exclusively on a vegetable diet. The vitality of the morbid growth seems to be depressed by saturation with the thallin and papain, locally, and this is effected by applying a strong paste of the two drugs in combination, or, where practicable, by their inunction.—New York Telegram.

Phonographic Records of Temperature.

A novel method of determining the temperature of the air at great heights has been proposed by a German physicist and is to be adopted by the Berlin Society for ballooning. Small balloons are sent up at night, each provided with a thermometer arranged to give flashes of light by the closing of an electric circuit when certain temperatures are reached. A so called "phototheodolite" is effected by the light and gives a photographic record of the temperatures, while the corresponding altitudes are indicated in a mechanical way. A more accurate idea of the rate of decrease of temperature with height is expected with this method.—New York Telegram.

Major or Minor?

Corelli was leading the performance of a composition of Scarlatti's, when, in a passage that was probably not well written for the violin, he made a very conspicuous mistake, while Petrillo, the Neapolitan leader, who was familiar with the passage in question, executed it correctly. Then came a piece in the key of C minor. Corelli, already disconcerted, led it off in C major. "Ricominciamo!" (Let us begin again!) said Scarlatti, with his usual politeness, and poor Corelli started once more in the major; so that Scarlatti was at last obliged to point out his mistake. Corelli felt this incident as a great humiliation and left Naples immediately. Returning to Rome, he found that a new violinist, Valentini, had won the admiration of the public, and, considering himself slighted and superseded, took it so much to heart that his health began to fail.—Sir George Grove's Dictionary of Music.

A Pleasant Acquisition.

"Maria," said Mr. Bronson at midnight. "Go in to Willie and make him stop blowing that tin horn. This is no time for that!"

"That's not Willie. It's the new nurse snoring."—Epoch.

A MONTREAL TOBOGGAN SLIDE.

Outdoor Exercise That Makes Canada's Men Strong and Her Women Beautiful.

The park toboggan slide is the finest and longest artificial slide in Montreal, and it is the most frequented. There are two chutes, both nearly a mile in length, and every night during the season the toboggans are continually whizzing down them, traveling at the rate of the "Flying Dutchman" of world wide railway repute. The scene around the slide is very picturesque. A thick mantle of snow is thrown over all the surroundings. Torches placed on either side of the chutes cast their alternate flashes and shadows upon the faces of the animated groups, and outline for an instant the forms of the travelers who fly past, leaving a little cloud of snow in their wake. Montreal's fairest and most famous divinities crowd together on the landing stage, awaiting impatiently their turn to descend. Of course there is some danger in tobogganing. That's half the charm of the thing. Down the far stretching glare of ice, in the uncertain light, one can see a toboggan just shooting the dip, with another speeding along half way down the slide, and as the second toboggan flies into the shadow the sense of danger makes one's veins tingle with pleasurable excitement.

The physique of the Canadian people has become the admiration and despair of the world. The men are noted for their brawn and muscle and their excellence in all athletic exercise. The women are famous for their erect and graceful carriage. They do not amble, but walk military wise, straight from the hips. The mingling of French and Scotch, English and Irish, has produced a distinct type of beauty, which combines the graces of the Anglo-Saxon race with the wit and vivacity of the daughters of La Belle France. I believe that no woman is ugly. There certainly are no ugly women in Canada—I do not think there are any who can honestly be called plain. The climate forbids any such thing. All Canadian maidens are endowed with a healthful ruddiness that is at once attractive and aggressive. This is the result of plenty of fresh air and exercise, of snowshoeing, skating and dancing. Canadians rival all nations in their skill and knowledge of the two latter diversions.—New England Magazine.

The Corpse of Conjugal Love.

The corpse of conjugal love is an awful corpse. Not long ago a married woman asked me for $10. She said her husband had money, but she wouldn't ask him for a dollar if she never got any. There is a corpse in that house. The husband is stingy and tyrannical, the wife is proud and sensitive; and so love got sick soon after the marriage and lingered and languished and died. A man ought not to force his wife to ask him for money. It does humiliate a woman. It makes her feel her helplessness, her dependence and smothers her equality. The husband ought to anticipate her wants if he is able. The money or the bank account ought to be at her disposal at all times, for she will spend less of it foolishly than he will. A very considerate wife told me that it was her greatest trial to ask her husband for money, though he was always kind and never refused. And I suspect there is many a good wife who is humiliated in the same way.—Bill Arp in Atlanta Constitution.

Elevator Etiquette.

"No; I don't take off my hat because there happens to be a lady in the elevator."

The speaker was a senator with a national reputation for gallantry.

"All my life I have been studiously polite to womankind," continued the congressman, "but I have never taken my hat off in an elevator save in two instances. Once it was done to save my $10 Knox from a low doorway, and the second time my object was to look in an elevator mirror at the wreck of what was years ago a fine head of hair. I don't take off my hat in a street car or a railway car, no matter how many ladies may be in them, and no one has ever advanced to me a solitary reason why I should uncover my head in an elevator. It is a foolish custom, which no thinking man will observe and no sensible woman insist on."—Washington Star.

Training of the Parisian Artisan.

In Paris the highest perfection of the building trade is attained. The city, as a building centre, is the queen of the world. Everything is artistic, from the beginning of the building to the last stroke of the painter's brush. Every artisan and mechanic in Paris is an artist. He has every opportunity to develop his taste for the beautiful in art, for on every side he sees everything done with a view to the artistic and the beautiful. For the Frenchman's benefit and education, the state maintains museums, art galleries and gardens which are free to all comers, and the Parisian workman avails himself to the fullest extent of these opportunities. As a consequence he becomes not only a better mechanic, but an artist. American methods of building compare favorably, however, with those adopted in Europe, with the exception, perhaps, that there the solidity of construction is greater, and that pains are taken to carry out the idea of the architect, even in the smallest detail.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Boy Character.

It is the greatest delusion in the world for a boy to get the idea that his life is of no consequence, and that the character of it will not be noticed. A manly, truthful boy will shine like a star in any community. A boy may possess as much of noble character as a man. He may so speak and live the truth that there shall be no discount on his word. And there are such noble, Christian boys, and wider and deeper than they are apt to think is their influence. They are the king boys among their fellows, having an immense influence for good, and loved and respected because of the simple fact of living the truth.—Child's Paper.

A Corean Superstition.

The Coreans are extremely fond of animals, and tell endless stories about them. Once upon a time, a courtly lady fell in love with one of the palace officials, a man named Kim. The intrigue was discovered, and she was put to death. But her spirit became an oriole, and this is why to this day the bird is always singing "Kim-pul-lah-go, Kim-pogo-sip-so," which means. "Call Kim; I want to see Kim." And Corean women and children always feel sad when they hear the oriole's plaintive note.—Montreal Star.

The Smallest Book Published.

The celebrated "Thumb Bible" was written by John Taylor, who was born in 1580 and died in 1654, and who is most commonly known as the "water poet." He was a man of a great deal of original genius, but his books now are principally known from their very peculiar titles. The "Thumb Bible," which is an epitome of every book in the Scriptures in verse, was first published in 1693 as a complete work, the two parts having been issued separately during his lifetime.—New York Commercial Advertiser.
